

Winnetka

1. Frannie This younger cousin of old-guard Winnetka boutique Frances Heffernan features items that have a sense of quiet luxury: soft leather Henry Beguelin totes, Alexander Wang cocktail dresses, silk-detailed Robert Rodriguez blouses, and Temple St. Clair signature gold amulet necklaces. 808 Elm St., 847-446-5508

2. Gray It's not often that a boutique expands from the suburbs into the city, but that's exactly what happened with Winnetka-based Gray, which unveiled its second location in Chicago's Old Town early last year. As winning as that outpost is, we have a soft spot for its original location. Virtually every feminine-influenced line of note is stocked, including Catherine Malandrino, Milly, Tracy Reese, Nanette Lepore, and Harkham—and that's just a sampling. 821 Chestnut Ct., 847-446-5650

3. Jake New to Winnetka is the latest branch of this wildly popular Chicago minichain. This season, Thread Social, Mayle, and Lutz & Patmos have designed garments exclusively for the store, and they perfectly complement the selection of citified pieces by Doo Ri, Bruce, and Nili Lotan. 565 Lincoln Ave., 847-501-5253

4. Neapolitan It's difficult not to be drawn in by the old-school appeal of a salon full of designer shoes visible through giant plate-glass windows. In addition to patent Lanvin ballet flats and buckled Chloé pumps are statement bags (Bottega Veneta woven-leather hobos, Alexander McQueen "Novak" clutches) and a well-edited selection of garments from Derek Lam, Brian Reyes, Zac Posen, and Nina Ricci. 715 Elm St., 847-441-7784
